The Washington correspondent of the Courier farnishes the full monthly statement of exposts for the year 1844-45, ending 30th June, 1845.

The following is the account made up from the monthly returns, with the same deficiencies as those which make the imports differ 3 per cent from the official amounts for nine months, the difference between these monthly statements of exports and the official returns for nine months, is greater than it is in the imports, because Mobile, the principal port, the Collector of which has neglected to make his monthly reports, exports a much larger amount than she imports:
